Quotations from Distinguished Peers

To solve the long-object problem, a first level of improvement with respect to the 2D FBP algorithms was obtained by backprojecting the data in 3D, along the actual measurement rays. The prototype of this approach is the algorithm of Wang et al (1993).

Many advances in CB reconstruction have been made recently thanks to the quest for an attractive reconstruction method in helical CB tomography.

Papers by Our Team

